

SCENES OF TIME

photography

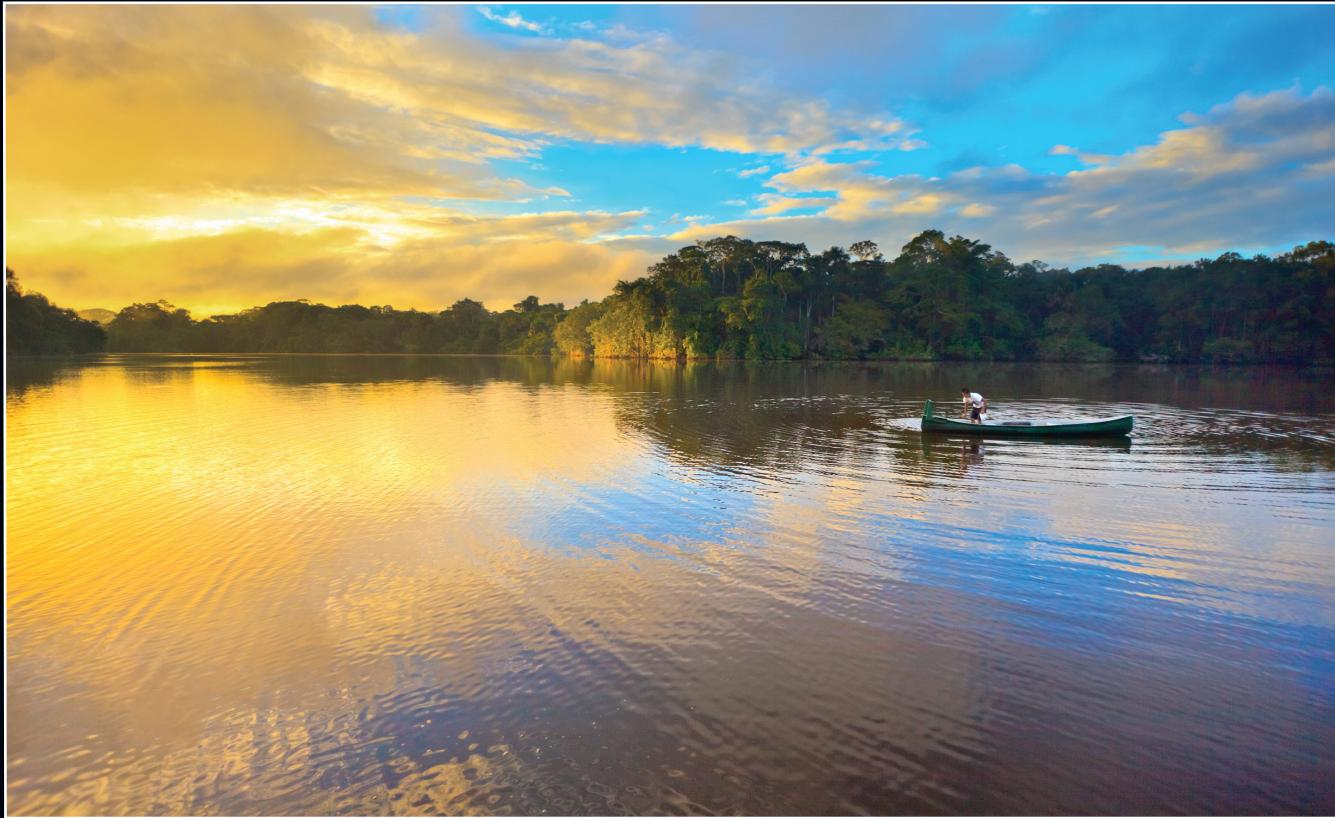

A Land Called Hanalei
Hanalei Valley, HI

images@scenesoftime.com

630-201-3504

The Ferryman
Garzacocha Lake, Ecuador

Biophilia

Human beings subconsciously share an inter-connectedness with the web of life, a deep affinity with nature rooted in biology.

Yet we behave as though we control nature. We don't. We can't. Depression, anxiety, and many other 21st century "dis-eases" may merely be symptoms of our underlying Nature Deficit Disorder. I don't need a psychiatrist to diagnose me as a basket case while I race through the hustle and bustle of daily life, but it's nice to see modern science is finally catching up. Studies have shown that simply being in nature raises levels of white blood cells and lowers blood pressure.

National Geographic suggests viewing the natural world through photographs may have a similar effect.

Night Life
Amazon Rainforest, Ecuador

*Biophilia
Biophilic Biophelia*

Spotlight
Bolingbrook, IL

Secret Life of Butterflies
Wedron, IL

images@scenesoftime.com

630-201-3504

Mirror, Mirror in the Sky
Sedona, AZ

Eco-awareness

Scenes of Time is rooted in Tom Tortorich's reverence for nature as much as his love of photography.

"I've never walked into a 24-Hour Mart and seen anything truly unique. But that's exactly what you see every time you walk out your front door," Tom says. "Now our relationship with nature is at a critical threshold. If you blink, it may be gone. But when the shutter blinks," Tom pantomimes with a forefinger and thumb, "ch-chcht," he says, "it's frozen in time forever. To see the world in a grain of film..."

Scenes of Time depicts some of the most fragile ecosystems on our planet. Part of Tom's hope in taking these photos is to raise our collective eco-awareness. Part of his hope in selling these photos is to raise money for eco-protection worldwide.

Ring of Life
Garzacocha Lake, Ecuador

Eternity in an hour gallery

Eternal Sunshine on the Spotless Brine
Hanalei, HI

Into the Twilight
Black Hills National Forest, SD

images@scenesoftime.com

630-201-3504

Flow

Great Smoky Mountains National Park, TN

	12x16	18x24	24x36
Prints & Matted Prints	$45	$75	$125
Mounted Prints	$95	$135	$195
Canvas Prints	$175	$225	$325
Framed	$225	$325	$425

A portion of all proceeds are donated to eco-protection efforts worldwide. Whenever possible, proceeds from the specific print you buy will be donated directly to programs in the area that photo was taken.

WWW.SCENESOFTIME.COM
WWW.SCENESOFTIME.COM

Wingswept
Point Dume State Beach, CA

Borrowed Earth
Borrowed Earth

Perspective
Canopy Tower, Amazonia

Skylight
Sedona, AZ

"The Earth goes nowhere. In time, it will regenerate. All the lakes will be pristine, the rivers, the waters, the mountains, everything will be green again. It'll be peaceful. And you know why? Because the Earth has all the time in the world. And we don't." —Oren Lyons, Faithkeeper of the turtle clan of the Onondaga and Seneca Nations of the Iroquois.

630-201-3504

images@scenesoftime.com

152 Enclave Circle, Unit D
Bolingbrook, IL 60440

SCENES OF TIME photography

May help reduce the risk of Nature Deficit Disorder.

images@scenesoftime.com

WWW. SCENES OF TIME. COM
~~WWW. SCENES OF TIME. COM~~

Thom Tortorich